What Democrats Think of Their Leader.

Bayard to Nominate Cleveland at the Chicago Convention.

Both Sides Hopeful of Winning in Rhode Island Today.

California Democrats will Hold Their State Convention at Fresno—Results of Municipal Elections in East and West.

By Telegraph to The Times.

BUFFALO (N. Y.), April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] A thousand men bearing banners and transparencies and headed by a band of music escorted ex-Secretary Charles N. Fairchild, ex-Mayor William Grace and Hon. Frank M. Thornton tonight to Music Hall, where were gathered 2000 people to hear their protests against the "snap convention" and their reasons for revolt against the alleged bossism which has dictated and dominated. The assembly included many ladies, some Republicans and a few Hill Democrats.

The meeting was practically of one kind, however, and the only dissenting voice heard was raised by a semi-indebted individual, who was promptly ejected. Much enthusiasm was shown, particularly at the trenchant satire of Frank M. Thornton, whose pungent oratory kindled the audience to a fever heat.

John Irebacher, president of the Erie County Democratic Club, a new organization formed by Cleveland men, called the meeting to order and nominated Hon. Charles F. Bishop, the Mayor, to preside. His Honor spoke hopefully of the great movement to secure proper representation of the Democracy as a party at the national convention and briefly reviewed the history of the movement which prompted this meeting.

Ex-Secretary Fairchild was the next speaker. In part he said: We propose to prove our case by going to the people, by going to our constituency and asking them to give us credentials with which to go to Chicago to represent them. We propose to present our case to the national convention, to address ourselves to the masses and to demand that they sit upon our case, and, too, we propose to abide by the result loyally and faithfully, and all we ask of our opponents is that they be prepared, as we are, to abide by the decision of the last tribunal of the party.

Ex-Mayor Grace of New York said: We, too, are Democrats: we think democracy stands for something more than success in a game where personal advantage is excited above principle, and where organization is exalted as the end of the party's effort and as a means through which the political conscience of the masses manifests itself. More than 50,000 Democratic voters residing in the city of New York, without doubt, signify their desire to be represented at Chicago by a delegation which will truly and fully represent the preponderating majority of the Democratic voters of the Empire State.

Hon. Frank M. Thornton was the last speaker. Referring to Senator Hill he said: In his reckless campaigning after the nomination he has shown himself ready to obstruct and trifle with tariff reform and to tamper with the stability of honest people's money to the inevitable destruction of the Democratic party and the irretrievable ruin of the business of the country. Within the last three months he has been for tariff reform and against tariff reform; against a "nibbling" tariff reform for a "colossal" one; he has been for free coinage and against it; he has been for a "straddle" due South by North, upon it; and so this burlesque political skirt dancer cavorts and kicks and twists and turns and bows and smiles and throws kisses at political bald heads and tries to palm himself off as an innocent young thing of beauty and a joy forever and a Deliberate dream of grace when all the while he is simply making an indecent exposure of himself as a political free walker, offering himself body and soul at the low price of a vote of a delegate.

Washington, Del., April 5.—A special from Wilmington, Del., says that Ex-Secretary Bayard will nominate Grover Cleveland at Chicago and will support him. Bayard says the special in the event of Cleveland's election expects to be appointed to the Court of St. James.

CALIFORNIA DEMOCRATS.

They Will Hold Their State Convention at Fresno May 17.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The Democratic State Central Committee met here today, with eighty members present, forty-seven proxies being represented. Chairman Russell Wilson called the meeting to order. C. F. Hanson opened the proceedings by presenting a resolution providing that no person be allowed to act by proxy unless he is a member of the county which the proxy represents. This resolution precipitated a lengthy argument.

Finally a motion to lay Hanson's resolution on the table was carried by a vote of 81 to 25. R. P. Hammond, Jr., H. J. Corcoran, J. D. Carr, E. H. Tucker and Fred Cox were appointed a Committee on Credentials. The Committee on Order of Business was appointed as follows: Max Popper, San Francisco; Eugene Germain, Los Angeles; A. C. Fassell, Stockton; J. F. Thompson, Humboldt; W. R. Jacobs, Tulare.

When it came to the vote to decide where the State convention should be held Fresno had everything its own way. C. F. Hanson moved that Fresno be selected, and W. R. Jacobs and E. D. Edwards also made short speeches in favor of that town. Fred Cox spoke for Sacramento and H. J. Corcoran of Stockton stated that his town withdrew in favor of Fresno.

When the question came to a vote and Fresno had received 123 votes to 8 for Sacramento, Cox moved Fresno be unanimously selected, which was done. The date of the convention was fixed for May 17.

The basis of representation will be one delegate-at-large for each county, and one delegate for each 200 vote cast for Pond for Governor in 1890, and one delegate for each fraction of 200 votes larger than 100.

The chairman announced there were three vacancies in the State Committee. Sam Rainey had resigned; John R. Cook of Lake was dead, and A. C. Bethler had been expelled. The Executive Committee was granted power to fill the vacancies.

The committee adjourned until 8 o'clock this evening.

The evening session was occupied in a discussion of plans for reorganization, but nothing definite was decided upon. Shortly after midnight the committee adjourned until tomorrow noon.

The general convention appointed by the Democratic clubs several weeks ago, met this morning. President John R. Glasscock presided. The object of the meeting was to perfect the club organization of the Democratic party throughout the State, and devise means of raising funds to carry on the central organization.

Max Popper made a long speech devoted to the purposes of the State club organization. Judge Sullivan moved to constitute the individual members of the committee, in their Congress districts, and each vice-president of the association of clubs, who are appointed by counties, a committee on organization.

Mr. McEnerney amended to add that each member be constituted an organizer in his county and that they be charged with forming a Democratic club in every county seat. Both motion and amendment were agreed to. It was then decided to make seven a quorum of the General Committee, who will push the work of organizing in the different counties.

EASTERN ELECTIONS.

Republicans Generally Won Where Party Lines were Drawn.

CHICAGO, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] A résumé of the city elections in Michigan, Ohio, Iowa, Kansas and North Dakota shows that in a majority of places local issues took precedence over politics and that when party lines were drawn the Republicans had the best of it. The Democrats generally were successful, securing large majorities.

OMAHA (Nebr.), April 5.—South Omaha never had such an exciting election as that which terminated this evening at sundown. The city is overwhelmingly Democratic. During the municipal campaign the Democrats have been split, and a most bitter feeling has prevailed. Several fights and arrests occurred at the polling places, but no one was seriously injured.

MILWAUKEE, April 5.—The city election today is believed to have resulted in favor of the Democrats.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—With a few exceptions in the city council the complete Democratic ticket was elected today.

Both Sides Hopeful in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE (R. I.), April 5.—Tonight the last effort was made to talk the voters of Rhode Island to the beauties of either tariff reform or protection. Regarding tomorrow's election political prophets are somewhat at sea as to the result. The most reliable Republicans' claim, coming from workers who are conversant with the detail of affairs, is that there will be no election for the State ticket. The Democrats will have slight plurality upon some of the nominees and the Legislature will be solidly Republican in both branches.

The Democrats advance no claim beyond saying that they will elect the State ticket, but they appear very confident. The new elements entering into the present contest are so diversified that calculations based upon precedent are not regarded with much faith by leaders of either party.

Republicans Carry Tacoma.

TACOMA (Wash.) April 5.—The municipal election today resulted in the election of H. S. Huson (Rep.) for Mayor. The Republicans also elect a majority of the City Council, treasurer and city physician. The controller is in doubt. Huson received about 180 majority in a total vote of 7500.

Oregon Republicans.

PORTLAND (Or.), April 5.—The Republican State Convention will meet in this city tomorrow and nominate two Congressmen, a Judge of the Supreme Court, Attorney-General and Presidential electors and to choose a delegate to the National Convention.

Kentucky Factions on the Warpath.

COVINGTON (Ky.), April 5.—A factional feud has been started in the hamlet of Central Covington, which adjoins this city. The Busses and the Staggenborgs quarreled at the election last Saturday, and Marshal Lambert, whom the Busses charged with favoring the Staggenborgs, was badly beaten. Last night the Staggenborgs went out for revenge, and going to one of the Busses' saloons, fearfully beat him and destroyed his place of business. Another saloon, owned by one of the Busses' faction, was visited, but the owner was not in. The avengers satisfied themselves by completely demolishing the place. At a third saloon, run by a brother-in-law of the Busses, the Staggenborgs were met by the former faction and were forced to withdraw. No one was killed in the meeting. Further trouble is expected.

Deeming Laughs in Court—Revolt in a Spanish Prison—Anarchists Have a Scare—Other News from Over the Seas.

MADRID, April 5.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The excitement caused by an attempt made yesterday to blow up the building in which the Cortes meets does not abate. On the contrary further particulars of the attempted outrage cause the public to become more indignant and many threats are indulged in. It is thought here that Anarchists have been allowed too much latitude in spreading the tenets of their belief, and henceforth the government should regard them as wild beasts to be destroyed on sight.

Three more Anarchists have been arrested. The total number of the prisoners is now thirteen.

IN THE COMMONS.

England's Policy as to Treaties of Arbitration Explained.

LONDON, April 5.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In the House of Commons today Henry Labouchere asked whether, in view of the fact that the American Congress had authorized President Harrison to conclude treaties with other powers providing for arbitration of disputed questions, the government intended to communicate with the United States with the view of the negotiation of such a treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

J. W. Lowther, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, replied that, in 1883 Gladstone, then Premier, in replying to similar questions, said he was not prepared to do anything of the sort. Although he had the same opinion as Gladstone on this subject, the government did not desire to give such an abrupt statement of its views. For the government had, Mr. Lowther added, shown itself not to be adverse to referring to arbitration several disputes that had arisen with foreign countries, but there are questions such as those involving territorial and other sovereign rights that the government could not pledge itself beforehand to submit to arbitration.

A CITY SHAKEN UP.

Terrific Explosion at Petersburg—Nine Men Killed.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 5.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Five tons of gun cotton in a state powder factory exploded last night. The whole city was shaken. Buildings were wiped out of existence. The remains of nine workmen employed in the factory were scattered to the winds. At first it was thought the Nihilists had begun their work again and a panic prevailed till the true cause was made known. Adjoining factories were greatly damaged and five workmen were hurt.

A Scare in Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—The steamer Australia arrived today from Honolulu, She brings a report of the considerable explosion that occurred at the latter place on the morning of March 28, owing to the discovery of a barricade of sandbags which had been erected about the palace.

A rumor spread that the revolutionists under Wilcox were preparing to make an attack.

It was subsequently ascertained that the barricade had been arranged as part of the drill by troops guarding the palace.

Deeming Laughing in Court.

MELBOURNE, April 5.—The inquest over the body of Mrs. Deeming, for whose murder Deeming is in custody, began today. Deeming sat in full view of the audience and seemed to enjoy the opportunity to give the people a chance to see him. The testimony went to show his connection with the murder. Deeming laughed loudly at different points in the testimony.

Revolt in a Spanish Prison.

MADRID, April 5.—A serious revolt has occurred among convicts in the prison at Granada. Gendarmes were called to quell the disturbance and fired upon the prisoners, killing or fatally wounding two. The rest of the prisoners returned to their cells.

Bank of England's New Governor.

LONDON, April 5.—David Powell, deputy governor of the Bank of England, was today elected governor in the place of the Rt. Hon. William Lidderdale.

Thousands of Cattle Dying.

GUTHRIE (Oklahoma), April 5.—The late cold snaps and storms caused great loss of cattle in Indian Territory. In Chickasaw country the losses are 90 per cent. In the Creek country hundreds are dead and more are dying daily. In the Comanche and Kiowa reservation the loss is greatest. Thousands have died and are still dying fast.

Egan Coming Home.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—It is said at the Department of State that Minister Egan has been granted leave of absence to visit the United States and that McCreey will act as United States Charge d'Affaires until the Minister returns to his post at Santiago.

Two Burglars Break Jail.

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.), April 5.—A special from Anderson, Ind., to the News says George Cox and "Shorty" Wells, two of the most desperate burglars ever captured in that county, broke jail this morning.

AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.
AT THE OPERAHOUSE—Rigoletto.
AT THE THEATRE—Victim of Circumstances.

COSTA RICA has adopted a law prohibiting the exportation of gold.

The dynamite scare in Paris has had the effect of driving away a good many visitors from the gay French capital.

The Washington Star thinks that some political orator should get in ahead of his contemporaries and copyright the remark that we are on the eve of a great struggle.

The State of California pays $101,995 for the scalps of 20,299 coyotes killed from April 1, 1891, to December 31, 1891. And all of the coyotes were not killed in California, either.

The champion precocious boy has been discovered in Kansas City, Mo. He is only 9 years old, but he pointed a pistol at the paying teller and demanded all the coppers in the bank.

E. D. SMITH of Menasha, Wis., has had detailed drawings made of the Pasadena library building, and he proposes to erect one like it at his home and donate it to the city for library purposes.

A Florida hotel man is quoted as saying that that State is going out of favor as a winter resort. Everybody knows it is no summer resort, so its resort business must be a quien sabe case all the way round.

The recent and now famous trip of a party of Congressmen to the mountain town of West Liberty, Ky., for the purpose of officially witnessing the burial of the late Representative Kendall will cost the Government $218.56.

The Council has made a grave mistake in shelving the proposition for the removal of the pest house to a more remote and less frequented locality. A very advantageous offer was made to the city of ample grounds in an out-of-the-way place, and the Council could not have done better than to accept it. Some time the pest house will have to be moved. It cannot always remain in a part of town contiguous to dwellings. A few years hence the removal may cost a good deal more money than at present.

The State Board of Horticulture has issued a pamphlet of thirty-three pages, by Secretary B. M. Lelong, on the California prune industry, giving an account of its history and importance, with the methods of cultivation, varieties, picking, curing, packing and production. The pamphlet states that "it would appear that while the United States imports from three to four times the quantity of prunes produced by California, there is still a large field for our domestic fruit, and that with our continually-increasing population the danger of over-supply is still very remote, and prune-growing in California may be relied upon as a profitable industry for years, if not for generations to come."

A SAN DIEGO exchange tells of a family from the zephyr swept State of Kansas who had intended to locate in San Diego, but were scared away by the recent mild earthquake in that place. As they were pulling out, the head of the house shouted from the rear platform of the car: "Good-by; I prefer blizzards to earthquakes. I can see them." About the first of the present month he must have seen them in downright earnest, and now he probably thinks he would prefer to be rocked in the cradle of a Southern California temblor. The present trouble is the one that we always magnify. As a matter of fact, the refugee is just about as liable to be shaken up by an earthquake in Kansas as he is in California. The writer has experienced as heavy a shock there as he ever felt on the Coast. And then the blizzards and tornadoes are thrown in to boot for the Kansas.

The reader of the great New York Sunday papers, who has been obliged to confront pages of letters on such frivolous topics as "What Constitutes Woman's Chief Charm?" and "How to be Beautiful?" will be gratified by the assurance that the ladies are now turning their attention to the solution of moral pathological questions. A grave matter has arisen to worry and perplex the mothers among the Four Hundred and all New York is interested in the discussion. The question, as presented by an anxious mother, is briefly this: "Shall I spank my daughter, 16 years of age, when she disregards my authority?" It is interesting, if not surprising, to learn that the mother, through the medium of the press, has already received 1000 answers, and responses having been stimulated by the promise of $5 for the most satisfactory information. And all this time the sixteen-year-old daughter must be waiting in an agony of suspense, not knowing whether she is to be spanked or not.

Sunol, who received 62,989 votes, is enjoying a trip to Lake Tahoe this summer, and the third, Miss Virginia Galhoun (57,497 votes,) is to visit the Sandwich Islands; expenses paid. An immense amount of interest was worked up in the contest, and the Santa Clara county people must have voted early and often.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

GRAND OPERAHOUSE.—It was a decidedly off night for opera at the Grand last evening, and the small audience, which did not see the curtain go up until after 9 o'clock, witnessed a very unimpressive performance, heard much mediocre singing and a little that was fairly good. Helen Parpa, who was started on the program in large capitals to sing the role of "Leonora," was heavily overweighted and failed utterly to voice the beauties of Verdi's tuneful score. Gertrude May Stein, as "Azuena," appeared to quite the best advantage of anything that has been heard in here, and sang the music of the part with good effect. She was especially excellent in the solo, "Come to the Mountains," and in the duet with "Manrico" in the last act. William Stephens as "Manrico" was but passable, though he sang a few of the numbers with considerable sweetness. Joseph Rubo and Mr. Mortenson gave the same excellent account of themselves that they always do, but beyond this, last night's grand opera was scarcely so grand as it might have been.

Tonight Miss Juch will close her engagement, appearing in the role of "Gilda" in Verdi's beautiful opera Rigoletto. Notwithstanding the disappointments of last night, Miss Juch is such a splendid artist one cannot but wish her a bumper of a house at parting, and so we bespeak for her the showers of roses and bouquets that her beautiful art merits. The great Mertens will appear as "Rigoletto," and Rubo, the fine basso, as "Sparafucile."

LOS ANGELES THEATRE.—Sir Simon Simple was repeated at the Los Angeles Theatre last night, to a fair house. Emma Juch and her mother together with Señor Michelena and a party of friends occupied a stage box.

Tonight A Victim of Circumstances will be given and the Oakland and Los Angeles baseball games will be presented in a byway.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.—William Gillette's domestic conglomeration styled All the Comforts of Home will be presented on Thursday, Friday and Saturday next. The play is full of mirthful situations, clever dialogue and we are assured that it will be artistically played. The company consists of the following players: S. Miller Kent, Samuel Edwards, E. L. Lamb, Herbert Ayling, H. A. Morey, J. B. Hollis, Jacques Martin, J. P. Rickard, D. B. Howard, Matt Hamilton, Kate Dennis Wilson, Trella Fatts (a California girl), Pearl Means and Goldie Andrews.

The piece was previously played here to fine houses and the arrangement given above would lead to the conclusion that the success will be repeated.

It looks now as though Hazard's Pavilion would be packed Thursday and Friday nights for the usual entertainment, the Grand City Walk. Just now this amusement is the most popular in the city. 1000 colored men and women will participate, giving realistic pictures of life in the South in slavery days, together with characteristic dances and jubilee songs. Among the latest to enter for the prizes is Frank Childs who recently knocked out La Blanche. The pavilion will be beautifully decorated, and Mr. Hazard, with an orchestra of fifteen musicians will furnish the music.

A TALK WITH FORAKER.

McKinley More Prominent Than Sherman, He Says.

At the Same Time the Governor is Not a Candidate in the Ordinary Sense of the Word—A Good Combination.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Ex-Gov. Foraker came quietly into the National Capital today. His presence was demanded by his clients in an important case to be decided by the Secretary of the Treasury, and he had an immediate conference with Secretary Foster on the matter and left tonight. While he was here he was asked by a Commercial Gazette correspondent about matters outside of his business trip. Judge Foraker is always ready to talk openly and frankly on all political subjects. He has no concealments about anything. He was asked the question: "What do you think of the probability of Gov. McKinley's candidacy for the Presidency?"

"I think he is not a candidate in the ordinary sense of the word. He is deservedly very popular with the Republicans of Ohio, and if President Harrison were out of the way there would no doubt be a strong disposition to nominate McKinley. I don't imagine there would be any opposition to him in Ohio on any account. But, as I say, I think he is not a candidate in the ordinary sense of the word. He is not a candidate for the Presidency."

"As between McKinley and Sherman who is the more talked of in Ohio. Governor?" asked the Commercial Gazette correspondent.

"I have heard little talk about Senator Sherman as a Presidential candidate. If he should be a candidate it might complicate matters, for Senator Sherman, in such an event, would have a strong support, and would no doubt detract somewhat from McKinley's strength, but it is my understanding that Senator Sherman is not and does not desire to become one. As to that, however, I do not know."

"Which of the two men," asked the correspondent, "is the more discussed as a probable candidate?"

"McKinley I think. I am sure he is more talked of as a probable nominee than is Senator Sherman."

"How would Reed and Rusk—Tom and Jerry—do for a ticket?"

"I think that would be an admirable one. I understand that Tom and Jerry is a good combination."

PRESIDENT ELIOT.

A Pleasant Visit to St. Paul's School—Talk to the Boys.

President Eliot visited St. Paul's School Monday morning, accompanied by M. S. Severance, who is a trustee of that institution. The president made a short address to the boys, signifying his approval of private schools, which was of mutual benefit.

He urged upon the boys the necessity for constant application as a means of success, saying that while he did not quite agree with the authority who defined genius as a power of constant application, yet such application was of paramount importance in school work. Mr. Severance and Mr. R. H. Gushée, one of the masters of the school, are Harvard men, and President Eliot evinced special interest in the school, as it is preparatory to Harvard College in particular.

During the President's visit to the school a party without in a handsome carriage, among them were Mrs. Eliot, Mrs. M. S. Severance, Maj. and Mrs. H. T. Lee.

The party was driven to Pasadena yesterday, where the day was spent in seeing the country.

POLITICAL.

Meeting of the National Republican League Club—The Democrats.

The first campaign shot was fired by the National Republican League Club in its new quarters in the California Bank building last night, and much enthusiasm was manifested. The meeting was largely attended by both members of the organization and others, and the rally was in all respects a magnificent one. Maj. John A. Donnell delivered an eloquent address and occupied an hour in its delivery. He was many times applauded and at the close received quite an ovation. The club numbered forty new members, and it has a membership now of upward of 150 of working Republicans.

It is the confident expectation of the officers of the club that this number will be quadrupled before the next Republican candidate for President has been nominated in the Minneapolis convention.

The next regular meeting will be held in the club hall, corner Second and Broadway, on next Tuesday evening, April 12, to which all Republicans are invited. At that meeting the club will choose delegates to the State League convention, which will be held in San Francisco May 6. It is hoped that many new members will be received at that meeting in order that the representation to the State meeting will be made larger.

The Hill Club.
The Hill Democratic Club of California No. 1 met last night with J. Marion Brooks presiding.

Capt. W. F. Higgins, chairman of committee to elect a delegate of the club to attend the Chicago convention, reported twenty-six names had signed to go as a delegation of the club. He thought that the club should have a strong feeling against sending any more than thirty-two as the club delegation, so the thirty-two names will be selected at the next meeting of the club, Tuesday night next.

A committee of five was appointed to make arrangements for a grand picnic and barbecue on the slopes of Mt. Wilson on May 1. The following is the committee: W. K. Dial, Dr. Bryant, R. J. Adcock, M. W. Conklin and Henry Wilson.

A resolution was adopted that the club hold regular meetings every Tuesday night.

GOTHAM'S INQUIRY.

The Foreman of the Grand Jury Makes Some Startling Statements.

NEW YORK, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] "There is at least $7,000,000 collected annually from concert halls, gambling dens, saloons and houses of ill repute and distributed among members of the police department. I say at least $7,000,000, for calculation shows that the amount is probably near $10,000,000." According to a morning paper, Henry M. Tabor, foreman of the March grand jury, made the above startling accusation in an interview last evening.

"Against what members of the police do you direct the accusation?"

"Against the entire force, from superintendent to patrolman. I have given above would lead to the conclusion that the success will be repeated."

"Do you infer that the witnesses fear assassination?"

"Perhaps I should not go so far as to say they fear deliberate assassination, but they certainly fear bodily harm. At all events the police system in this city is such that no one can deny the danger one is subject to when he incurs the enmity of any member of the force."

THE READING DEAL.

Gov. Abbott Vetoes the Law Legalizing the Great Comb.

TRENTON (N. J.), April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Gov. Abbott this morning vetoed the bill legalizing the Reading Railroad Company deal on the ground of unconstitutionality.

It was stated tonight that Atty.-Gen. Stockton will commence proceedings to annul the charters of the New Jersey Central and Port Reading railroads for violating the law of 1885, which permits railroads to consolidate only after the consent of the Secretary of State and obtaining permission from the Legislature.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—On the announcement today that the Governor of New Jersey had refused to sign the bill legalizing the Reading Railroad Company deal, President McClellan, of the Reading road, was asked: "Will the refusal of the Governor to sign the bill have any effect on the combination?"

"None whatever," he replied. "We are perfecting our organization, and we will not be affected by the action of Gov. Abbott."

TARIFF ROW IS A UNIVERSITY.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—It has transpired that Provost Rogers of the University of Pennsylvania, asked for the resignations of Rev. Robert Ellis Thompson, professor of history and political economy, and six members of the faculty. All except two refused to resign. It is said the most serious aspect of the whole affair is the strong opinion of the Wharton School of Finance against members of the faculty, whose heads it is wished to chop off. The opposition to Prof. Thompson is said to be most pronounced, as he teaches the protectionist theory in political economy to all students. When these students before the Wharton school, free trade doctrines are propounded to them.

To Compete With California.

NEW YORK, April 5.—According to a Valparaiso dispatch, the Chilean Consul for Central America has informed the government of Salvador that the Minister of Foreign Affairs authorizes him to offer to the South American Steamship Company for the following subvention: To call monthly at the ports of La Union, La Libertad and Acapulco from Panama, $6000 in silver to pay the rest of the year. The subvention is in order to compete with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and also to endeavor to find a market for Chilean flour against the California article.

—National Notes.

By Telegram to the Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The Republicans of the House for the first time this session resorted to filibustering, and the enormous Democratic majority of two-thirds found it impossible to overcome the skillful tactics of Representative Burrows and force the Free Wool Bill to a vote. It has been rumored for some time that the Democrats would attempt to pass the Springer bill before the close of the legislative day, in order that it might have political effect in aiding the Democrats to carry Rhode Island. Whatever intentions there may have been some days ago of rushing this bill through the House, there is no doubt that the plan was finally abandoned before the departure of Chairman Springer yesterday for Virginia Beach. It had been generally understood by members that it had been agreed by the Committee on Ways and Means, Democrats and Republicans alike, that immediately after the House went into committee of the whole a vote should be taken without debate on it. Mr. Burrows' amendment, which was pending, was to strike out "wools" from the first section, and the effect of this amendment is intended to strike out the sense of the bill, but when Mr. McMillin closed the debate on the first section, limited to one hour, the Republicans moved that two hours be accorded.

Pending the decision of the question, Speaker Crisp spoke sharply to Mr. Burrows in a manner which that gentleman resented, and this impelled the Republicans to resort to filibustering methods to accomplish their ends. Under the rules the Democrats were powerless, and the House finally adjourned.

There is no intention on the part of the committee to resort to the closure, and the fight will continue tomorrow with both sides arrayed as they were when the flag of truce was raised this evening.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—Mr. Morgan offered an amendment to his silver resolution, which was ordered to be printed. It instructs the Finance Committee to report a bill supplementary to the act of July 14, 1890, which shall provide for the redemption of gold and silver bullion on equal terms as to each metal and for the issue of treasury notes in denominations not to exceed $500 and upon the same terms and conditions as in the act of 1890, upon all gold and silver bullion that the United States may acquire by purchase, and that any depositor who shall deposit in the treasury gold or silver bullion in quantities of not less than $100 in value, the product of mines in the United States, which has not been previously coined shall, at his option, receive coin certificates for the same at the mint value of the bullion.

The Indian Appropriation Bill was taken up, the question being on Mr. Dawes' motion to strike out the provision for the assignment of army officers to the duties of Indian agents with an amendment attached to it, offered by Mr. Hawley that whenever the President shall be of the opinion that the good of the service specially requires it he may appoint a civilian.

Mr. Pettigrew moved to strike out the general provision and Mr. Hawley's amendment and to insert in lieu thereof the following:

The President is authorized to detail officers of the United States army to act as Indian agents at all agencies where he shall deem such action for the benefit of the service.

Mr. Palmer opened against the policy of the House provision. In the course of his argument and of interruptions of it by other Senators, he appeared to be startled and surprised by learning that the Senate were Indians who were United States citizens and voters. He was informed by Mr. Pettigrew that the Sisseton Indians in South Dakota were citizens of the United States and voters, having taken their oath in severalty, and yet they had agents of them.

Mr. Allen told him how in the State of Washington there were 600 Indians on a reservation immediately adjacent to the city of Tacoma who were citizens of the United States and voters controlling in all local affairs even down to the precinct and county matters.

Mr. Palmer confessed that the fact that United States citizens had agents over them was a startling thing to him. It might be true as a matter of fact, but it was startling as a matter of law.

Mr. Manderson alluded to the charge that rancid bacon had been shipped to the Sioux reservation. He read an official report showing that such was the case.

Mr. Dolph moved that the bill to absolutely prohibit the coming of Chinese persons to the United States be laid before the Senate and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. So ordered.

The question of assigning army officers to perform the duties of Indian agents was resumed and Mr. Cullom argued against the proposition. Mr. Dawes also argued against the proposition and before he concluded his address the Senate adjourned.

House.—The time of the House was spent in filibustering on the Free Wool Bill.

APRIL STORMS.

Later Details of the Cyclone's Wide-spread Ruin.

The Great Blizzard Continues to Howl All Over the Northwest—Railway Trains Blocked by Deep Snowdrifts.

By Telegram to the Times.
LOUISVILLE (Ky.), April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] At Russellville last night the storm destroyed trees, fences, barns and houses in a track four miles long and several hundred yards wide. Elvis Shelton's house was demolished and Kate Shelton, a relative visiting the family, had several bones broken and received dangerous internal injuries. Every member of the family received hurts and bruises, but none were seriously injured. The house of Samuel Brotherton was also destroyed but no one hurt.

COLUMBUS JUNCTION (Iowa), April 5.—The cyclone yesterday destroyed a number of buildings at Cairo. No one was seriously injured.

SEARCY (Ark.), April 5.—A cyclone passed over the southeastern portion of this county yesterday, doing great damage. No lives were lost. There were some miraculous escapes.

BRIDGEPORT (Ill.), April 5.—The cyclone last night damaged the Presbyterian and Methodist churches and several residences and totally demolished a number of barns, killing several horses.

THE APRIL BLIZZARD.

The Great Storm Still Raging Throughout the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Yesterday's storm passed all over the Northwest. The extent of the storm was hinted at in the earliest reports. The blizzard continued most of the night around Miller, S. D., and snowdrifts eight feet deep are now to be seen. Hundreds of head of stock wandered with the storm, many of which perished. One freight train has been stalled in the snow there since yesterday.

The unparalleled storm of rain and snow which has raged at Aberdeen, S. D., for the past three days ceased early this morning and the sun shined brightly. The fall of snow is simply tremendous, and in consequence the railroads are tied up north and west. Mixed trains on the Milwaukee road lay in snow all yesterday afternoon and night. The Chicago passenger train on the Northwestern got no further than Redfield on this line, but turned there and went back. The blockade is the worst experienced in a long time.

While seeding will be greatly delayed, farmers and all others are well satisfied and the acreage will be materially increased, as great encouragement is felt. The country districts will be nearly impassable for days to come.

At Huron, S. D., it is reported that the snowstorm yesterday afternoon blocked the west and north branches of the Chicago and Northwestern roads, the northbound train last night only reaching Redfield and returning this morning. No trains have been sent out or have arrived from the west since noon yesterday. Lines in other directions are open. Snow plows and shovels are working west and north. The Great Northern trains are also interrupted. The rainfall was the greatest ever known here in April.

RED LAKE FALLS (Minn.), April 4.—A furious blizzard at the courthouse yesterday afternoon for the past twenty-four hours. It is now growing in violence. It is feared there will be considerable loss of life on account of the small supply of fuel kept in reserve by the inhabitants.

HANFORD (S. D.), April 5.—A terrible storm of sleet and high wind is prevailing, practically suspending all business. Train service on the Northwestern is abandoned here. There is four inches of snow on the level.

OSAGE (Nebr.), April 5.—The storm yesterday drove cattle and live stock into the Platte River and many of them were killed. The loss will be heavy.

COULD NOT CONVICT.

The Assassins of a Montana Editor Escape Punishment.

ST. PAUL (Minn.), April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The case of the three miners of Edette, Mont., charged with the assassination of Edward J. Penrose in that city a year ago, came to a sensational end yesterday. The case had been sent to Deer Lodge on a charge of venue and when called yesterday, the State's attorney nolleed all three of the cases, stating that the State could not secure sufficient testimony to convict them. They were discharged. The case became celebrated from the fact that the accused were leading citizens and members of the Miners' Union, upon whom Penrose had waged a bitter personal war in his paper. He was, one day in June, shot to death on a prominent street crossing near the business portion of the town. At the time of the assassination the murdered man was a member of the Legislature of Montana.

A Brave Sheriff's Death.

ST. PAUL (Minn.), April 5.—When Sheriff Spencer of Whitman county, Wash., was wounded in the left side Friday, near Davenport in that State, he fired while prostrated, and killed Allen, the leader of a gang of horse thieves. Frank Young, a fellow-officer, died instead of standing by Spencer. Spencer's wounds were not necessarily fatal, but being left alone he bled to death. The horse thieves gathered about and taunted the brave officer while he was dying. His body was brought to Spokane yesterday. Great indignation is felt toward Young.

Killed His Paramour's Husband.

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—A special telegram from Bristol, Tenn., to the Post-Dispatch says: "At 2 o'clock this morning J. B. Jordan, a furniture dealer of this city, shot and killed N. C. Adams, husband of his (Jordan's) paramour. It seems that Adams was trying to keep Jordan from the woman's bedroom, when Jordan pulled his pistol and shot him dead."

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] George Mooney, one of the firemen of the ill-fated steamer West Indian, arrived on the steamer San Juan today. He says that the West Indian was wrecked by a tidal wave or earthquake, but was sunk by striking a sunken rock while being moved closer to shore at Acapulco. The vessel was lying so far out that great difficulty was experienced in loading her and Capt. Scott was requested to move the ship closer in to the iron pier. The steamer got under way about 9 o'clock in the morning and struck on the reef before she had gone 100 yards. The sea was perfectly smooth at the time and the crew had no difficulty in reaching shore. After the vessel struck Capt. Scott put all hands to work and managed to save nearly 2000 bags of coffee, but nearly all of it was spoiled with salt water. The steamer soon after slid off the reef and now lies in deep water.

Mooney says that Scott is one of the worst men he ever sailed for. No sooner had the West Indian left San Francisco than he began abusing the crew, and the story published in the newspapers on March 23 is true in every respect. The boatswain and a steward were beaten by the captain and mate frequently. The passengers interfered, but the answer they got was "Mind your own business; I am running this ship." When the steamer reached San José de Guatemala seven of the sailors and three of the firemen were in double irons. The captain charged them with mutiny. The British Consul investigated the case and at once ordered the men released, and they were paid off next day. The Consul told them that if they preferred to stay by the vessel he would take Capt. Scott out of the ship and place another man in charge, but the men preferred to leave her. Capt. Scott paid all expenses of the investigation and gave $100 rather than to go trial.

HIS TEA WAS BITTER.

A Girl and Her Lover Attempt to Poison the Former's Father.

MODESTO, April 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Charles Albert and Julia O'Meara, who were arrested on a charge of attempting to poison Dennis O'Meara, the girl's father, were admitted to bail today in the sum of $2500 each. O'Meara says his daughter wanted to marry Albert and wanted to get rid of her father because he opposed the match. The pair conceived the idea of poisoning him. O'Meara says that he twice found water bitter and did not swallow it. Next morning his tea was bitter, but he drank half of it. He then had convulsions for eight hours. Albert worked for O'Meara.

THE SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Second Day's Session of the County Institute.

The Forenoon Devoted to Work by the Several Sections.

Practical Suggestions on Improving Present Methods.

A General Session in the Assembly Room in the Afternoon—An Interesting and Instructive Address by Dr. Winship.

As the hands of the great clock on the tower of the high school building pointed to 9 yesterday morning the tread of many feet and the hum of a multitude of voices resounding in the halls and corridors and recitation rooms of the building were silenced in obedience to the tinkling of the electric bells, which announced in each of the three rooms where the separate sections of teachers were assigned that the hour for work had arrived.

Up in room 25 as many teachers and visitors as could crowd in were assembled to enjoy the drill on number-teaching in primary grades conducted by Miss Schallenberger, of the School of Methods of San José. Miss Belle Duncan, president of this section, called the teachers to order and the secretary, Miss Florence Bongie, called the roll, to which sixty-five teachers responded. Miss Schallenberger, of the school particularly the first year's work in numbers. She advocates a new departure in method; teachers should get out of the old beaten track of making a mystery and a bugbear of numbers by the Herculean effort made to teach a child during its first year of school life all the combinations of numbers up to ten. She argued that the sensible and natural method was, not to teach numbers as a specific study by itself, but let it come in incidentally. As you teach the child about the flowers, about the number of the petals; let the children discover that the bee has six legs, three on each side. Give no number drills in the abstract at first. Excessive drilling and repetition stupefies the child. Children learn numbers incidentally, intuitively, with their marbles and playthings. She prophesied that the time is not far distant when numbers as a special subject will be dropped from the programme of the first year. The lesson should be made interesting by the use of objects of interest to the child, not by beans and shoe-pegs entirely. Take candies, beads, Chinese coins, daisies and lilacs strung together, marbles, paper horses, cows, birds, monkeys, pictures of flowers, fruits and vegetables. These can be obtained at no expense by sending for a quantity of floral catalogues and cutting out the pictures. Take the labels of fruit cans for the pictures of fruit. Send to a poultry dealer for a quantity of catalogues and cut out the pictures of poultry. All these open up an illimitable field of resource and all appeal to the child's imagination. The objects themselves stimulate the child's thought. Miss Schallenberger showed samples of these illustrations, and passed about for the teachers' inspection some illustrated sketches done by her pupils. She warmly advocated the use of Palmer Cox's brownie books as a valuable attribute in child teaching.

A discussion followed, participated in by Miss Neukom of Pomona, Miss J. L. Smith and others. This part of the exercise was seriously marred by the persistent talking in the back part of the room by a gentleman (?) who kept up a running conversation in an undertone to a lady at his side almost continuously during the discussion, to the great annoyance of the teachers in that part of the room. This conduct on the part of a high school principal seems well-nigh inexcusable, particularly in a meeting conducted by ladies, and is deserving of a severe rebuke.

The second session of the forenoon began at 10:30, and the reporter dropped into section 2, where Dr. Winship gave a drill on arithmetic, which he pronounced the most essential study in the schoolroom. It comes under the classical devices of teaching. Diverging slightly from his subject, he said that the modern device of the school should be to save the time and strength of the teachers. "There is a need of some one to call a halt," he said, "in this tendency to work a teacher to death, but I haven't time to save your lives now, and truth compels me to say," he continued, "that I never saw a body of teachers who seemed to be in so little need of my services in that respect; however, I don't say it for the fact that you don't work hard, but rather to climate and an easy conscience."

Dr. Winship, notwithstanding the bitter attacks against the present system of public school teaching based on the assumption that an effort is made to fit every child to the same frame regardless of what the Lord made for him individually, expressed his firm opinion that the system of today is the highest educational ideal the world ever saw. He held that it is better to teach fifty pupils at once than two, if the teacher has the ability, as he should have, to teach each for all and all for each. There is the same power and magnetism to the teacher who stands before a large class that there is to a lecturer who has the sympathy and inspiration of thousands of auditors. He doesn't get that inspiration when he has an audience of two. Dr. Winship was especially emphatic in denouncing the theory of "the average scholar" which is the great curse of the school system. "There never was an average child born; there never will be," he exclaimed, and then proceeded to give the class of teachers a test in rapidity of addition to prove the folly of such a theory. Cards were passed around containing sets of figures and the teachers were set to work simultaneously to add up as many numbers as possible in a given time. The number of sums added ranged all the way from fifteen to eighty. The doctor held that it was no sign of stupidity because a pupil failed to be as quick as his neighbor in understanding a problem. That same dull boy may be doing something else in which the bright boy fails.

A talk on fractions concluded the Boston professor's pleasant instruction, and Prof. French of Downey opened the discussion with a plea for more thought work in arithmetic. He argued that there is a general lack of ability to reason on the part of the pupil. Calling on several teachers to act as pupils he sent them to the blackboard and well-illustrated his idea, calling out a somewhat animated discussion, which was kept up till the noon bell rung.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon exercises were held in the assembly room, all sections coming together for a general session.

Miss Emma L. Hawks, of the Los Angeles Normal School, presented a gracefully-written paper on "The Study of English," a subject she is well prepared to deal with, as she is a most accomplished teacher of English literature.

J. F. West followed with a talk on "The Mental Faculties and their Development," and afterward Miss Patten told the story of a gift which has been bestowed upon the teachers of California—a house for sick and worn-out teachers, at Las Caldas, about twenty miles from Pasadena. The generous donor is Miss Ada Gleason of Elmira, N. Y. The membership fee is $5, each member to pay 50 cents per month while teaching toward the support of the home. As soon as it becomes self-supporting the institution will be entirely free to those who need it; until that time a nominal sum will be charged for board. A photograph of the home—a handsome Queen Anne structure, built at a cost of $9000—was exhibited. The grounds include one and a half acres.

Dr. Winship gave the final talk of the afternoon. His theme was principally on the home management of boys—boys of the uncomfortable "know everything" age of 15. He pleaded for the early recognition of the manly inspiration which comes to a boy of that age, who for the first time has a revelation of life and its possibilities.

Last evening the teachers attended a lecture by Donald Downie, at Y.M.C.A. Hall on "Napoleon Bonaparte," on special invitation of the lecturer. The lecture was illustrated by 150 colored engravings.

The institute continues in session all day today, the three sections meeting at their separate rooms for special work during the forenoon, and the entire institute coming together in the afternoon for a general session when there will be three addresses as follows:

"Psychology as Applied to the Teacher," Jacob L. Hill; "A Teacher's Library," Superintendent J. S. Monroe; "Philosophy of Education," Dr. A. E. Winship.

MR. MANN ON HIS MUSCLE.

Summary Punishment Inflicted on His Son-in-law.

He Gave Him a Sound Thumping for Mistreating His Daughter and Then Had Him Locked Up for Battery.

A police officer arrested Thomas Dunn yesterday afternoon on a complaint charging him with battering his father-in-law, Mr. Mann. Mann is quite an old man, but he is very handy with his fists, as young Dunn soon discovered when the fight got under good headway.

The two men quarreled about Dunn's treatment of his wife and the former's language was so strong that Dunn resented it and struck his father-in-law. The old man gathered himself up in an instant and sailed in. It only took him a few minutes to knock his daughter's husband out.

Not feeling satisfied that he had sufficiently punished the youngster he called on Justice Austin, of the Police Court, soon after the fight and swore to a complaint charging Dunn with battery.

Mann is the old gentleman who set the would-be mashers of this city a lesson a few days ago. Two of his single daughters were walking down a fashionable street one evening last week when a mashers noticed them, and, as the girls are very pretty, the fellow followed them several blocks, when he stepped up to the girls and asked to be allowed to walk home with them.

As good luck would have it, Mr. Mann was only a few feet ahead of his daughters when the dude addressed them. The old man overheard the conversation and lost no time in joining the girls. He took in the situation at a glance, and before the dude realized what was going on he was sprawling on the sidewalk from a couple of well-directed blows from Mann's fist.

Just as the old man was preparing to thrash the fellow within an inch of his life an officer came up and placed him under arrest. He was hurried to the police station and locked up. The following day he was given 100 days in the city prison by Justice Austin. The only mistake made by his Honor was that he did not give the dude 100 days in the chain gang so that every woman he had insulted might watch him at work on the street with a ball and chain dangling from his spindle shanks.

It is a great pity that there are no more fathers of Mr. Mann's stripe in this city, for there is no city on the Coast where dude mashers are more insolent than right here in Los Angeles. There are a number of men who seem to have no other occupation and it is almost impossible for a lady to pass a group of these vagabonds, even in broad daylight without being insulted.

At nights they hang around and if a woman happens to be without a male escort she is sure to be spoken to and then chances to one the vagabond will insist on walking by her side, until he is convinced beyond a doubt that she will not put up with his impudent advances.

The chain gang is the proper place for these fellows and if the fathers and husbands of ladies, who are compelled to be on the street alone at times would only take the trouble to look out for their women folk the police justices would soon put some of the wretches where they can do no harm for a while, at least.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER. The trial of the Leffler murder case was resumed before Judge Smith in Department One yesterday morning, in the presence of a large number of interested spectators.

The work of selecting two more jurors occupied counsel until 11 o'clock, when Mr. Filmore and J. Baldwin were accepted, thus completing the jury.

The defendants, Andrew Kandalec and Janon Kormos, a couple of surly-looking Slavs, who occupied seats behind their counsel, watched the proceedings very closely, and followed the examination of each witness with an interest which belied the theory that they were unable to understand the English language, and it was very evident that both understood what was going on.

The first witness called by the prosecution was G. W. Plumer, a carpenter in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company, residing at No. 208 South Chestnut street, East Los Angeles.

He testified to the effect that he last saw Sam Leffler alive about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, November 28 last.

Next morning, November 29, he saw Leffler, who was wedged in between some timbers in the north end of the San Fernando street yard, as if it had been thrown there. The deceased was lying face downwards. Upon lifting Leffler's cap from his head, the witness found the skull fractured by either a bullet or some sharp instrument. The body was still warm. There was blood about the spot, also a trail of blood leading from where he was found to an empty boxcar on the track about twenty feet away.

In front of the car were traces of a recent scuffle and more blood. There was no blood oozing from the wound.

Serge J. R. Fletcher, of the police force, testified to the effect that on the day of the murder he had charge of the morning watch, and upon learning of the affair, made a cursory investigation. Following up a very slight clew he went to a restaurant at No. 1106 New Main street, and arrested both defendants there. Kormos, who was covered with blood, had tied a towel round his head and was sitting in the kitchen while Kandalec was outside. Upon searching the latter the witness found a bulldog pistol of 38 caliber upon his person, two of the chambers of which were empty, and had evidently recently been discharged. Both were conveyed to the police station in the patrol wagon.

J. W. Tolbert, an employee of the Southern Pacific Company, identified a revolver exhibited as one which he had loaned to Leffler.

H. E. Jones, a switch engineer, residing at No. 153 South Water street, testified to the effect that while on his way to work on Sunday morning, November 28, he heard two shots in rapid succession. He was then crossing the Downey avenue bridge, and when he passed under the electric light, he looked at his watch and found that it was seven minutes after 6 o'clock. The reports appeared to come from the cattle corral near Buena Vista street; but as the witness concluded that some one was shooting birds, he did not pay any attention to the matter. After oiling and fixing his engine up, he pulled out on the main track and about 7 o'clock backed up to the pile of bridge timbers where Leffler's body was found, when his fireman jumped off to see what was the matter.

R. H. Mullaly, a car repairer, testified to the effect that on Saturday evening, November 27, Leffler asked him to wait until he lighted the gas in the waiting room, so that they could walk home together. Finally Leffler, a man named Moore, the witness and his son started off together. After crossing the repairing yards, they proceeded up the tracks towards a path which led up to Buena Vista street, when they reached the trail, Leffler left his companions, who climbed up the hill. When they reached the top, the witness heard Leffler call to him, and telling his son and Moore to go on home he returned down the hill. While he was descending the trail the witness saw Leffler push Kandalec up the bank, and heard him tell him to leave the yard. The defendant resisted and Leffler said, "Don't you lay your hands on me," and kicked at the Slav. As the witness rejoined Leffler he heard Kandalec say something about his "comb-ra," and he suggested to Leffler that the man meant to indicate that he had a comrade, or partner. Leffler then walked away with the witness and a switchman who came up, while Kandalec went over to a pile of bridge timbers and sat down. As the trial proceeded, Kandalec made some remark, which Leffler understood to be "s-o-f-a-b," and he at once returned to Kandalec, followed by the witness, Leffler ordered the Slav to leave the yard, and he and the witness, finding two valises and some other packages hidden away in the timbers, picked them up and walked over the tracks to San Fernando street, where they deposited them outside of the Company's property. Kandalec, who followed them, was joined by Kormos, and the latter, on coming up to the two men, asked Leffler if he wanted to fight. Leffler wanted to know whether he should pick the intruders, but the witness persuaded him not to have any more trouble with them as no more had been performed. The witness and Leffler then went home together. Next morning shortly after 6 o'clock the witness saw Leffler's body lying on the identical pile of timbers from which they had taken the valises on the previous night.

Mullaly was cross-examined very closely by the defense, which attempted to prove that very intimate relations existed between the deceased and the witness, for the purpose of showing that he was biased in favor of Leffler as against the defendants.

W. J. Johnson, an old rag-picker, proved to be a very important witness. He testified to the effect that on Sunday morning, November 29, he was awakened from his sleep in the brush, near the corral, by the sound of voices in anger. He heard some one throw open a car door and say: "Get out of here, I'll fix you so that you won't come back any more." After some words, he heard the sound of some one falling and a scuffle ensued. Upon two shots were fired in quick succession, and all was quiet again. After waiting a few minutes the witness emerged from his hiding-place and saw the defendants standing by the car talking together. They soon afterwards started up the tracks toward the river, walking hurriedly.

Mrs. Fannie Leffler stated that her husband went to work at 1 p.m. on Saturday, November 28, and came back to supper shortly after 6 o'clock, returning about 10 o'clock, after which she never saw him alive again.

Dr. A. Bryant, who held an autopsy upon Leffler's body, reiterated his testimony as to the details of the same, given at the inquest and preliminary examination, and at the close of his evidence court adjourned for the day, the case going over until 10 o'clock this morning.

THE EWING DIVORCE SUIT.

The trial of the divorce suit of Robert S. Ewing vs. Emma A. Ewing, was resumed before Judge Shaw in Department Five yesterday morning, several witnesses being examined for both sides. The taking of testimony was concluded at 1 o'clock, and the cause was argued and submitted to the Court. Judge Shaw in summing up said:

The law provides that no divorce shall be granted upon the uncorroborated statement of either party. There must be corroboration in any case of divorce, as alleged before a divorce can be granted. In the case of the plaintiff in this action his own testimony makes a case which might be deemed cruel treatment. It hardly seems to the standard of what is usually considered cruel treatment. That is, it would naturally not be so, although he testifies it did have a very serious effect upon his health. But he is uncorroborated in any particular, except by his son, who testifies to an occurrence which he did not see, but saw some results; saw the father soon after the occurrence of the difficulty, when he received a scratch upon his face. That is about the only corroborative testimony there is. But, taking the case altogether, I do not think the case made out by him is sufficient to justify the Court in granting a divorce.

In regard to the case made by the defendant, there is no corroboration at all of her statements. She stands alone. So that the divorce cannot be granted upon her complaint.

I suppose I might possibly make an order in this case concerning the custody of the children. I do not see that the testimony shows either one of them is so unfit for the care and custody of the children as to justify making such an order. It is plain, from the evidence, that the care of the children in the courtroom, that somebody has given them pretty good children. They seem to be good children. Well-behaved and well taken care of, and so far as I can discover from their conduct here in the courtroom, they appear about as well behaved to their father and to their mother. I can see no reason why either one of the parents is not as competent to take care of the children as the other. The court cannot make or order or decide that the children shall have the best care that the world can give to them. They have to receive such care as the parents whom they have given to them and the fact that these children might possibly be better situated than with either or both of their parents is a matter which I cannot remedy. I think the best course will be for these two persons to endeavor, to the best of their ability, to exercise the patience and the forbearance that their relations to each other demand.

So far as the plaintiff is concerned, he married this woman, knowing that she had an infatuation in her head, and he knew it, and he knew that that infatuation was one which is calculated to make her perhaps hard to get along with, and which requires more patience and forbearance on his part than if she had not been thus afflicted. If she had any natural tendency to quarrel or to disagree, which she has, it would naturally exaggerate it. This does not justify him in asking to be relieved from the vows which he took. On the contrary, it demands of him a much greater degree of forbearance than he otherwise would be called upon to exercise.

Whether the defendant knew that he was not in the habit of drinking, is a matter of some doubt under the evidence, as one testifies to one state of facts and the other to the other. But, in any event, it is not sufficient to justify the granting of a divorce. He is a man who is a habitual drinker, and apparently his desires are not to be such, but when he does become intoxicated it is the result of the weakness of his nature, which is, perhaps, to some extent exaggerated and made worse by the fact that his wife is not as agreeable as she might otherwise be. These are matters which the courts cannot remedy. The only thing we can do is to leave the parties as they are found, and that is the judgment of the Court in this case.

The prayer of the complainant for divorce is refused and the prayer of the defendant for divorce is refused, and judgment rendered accordingly.

FOR THE DEFENDANTS. Judge Shaw rendered his decision in the case of John Mansfield vs. the Los Angeles and Pacific Railway Company et al. yesterday morning in accordance with following brief opinion filed therein:

The evidence in this case plainly discloses the fact that neither of the defendants has the possession of the premises described in the complaint at any time since September 10, 1889. This was long before the suit was commenced. The action is to recover possession of the land described. Ever since the said date the premises have been in the possession of Herman Silver as receiver of this court in the action of the California Bank vs. the Los Angeles and Pacific Railway Company. He has at no time held it in his individual capacity. The suit in which he was appointed receiver is still pending. His possession while the suit is pending, is not the possession of either of the parties, but the possession of the court. There is no complaint in either the bill or body of the complaint to indicate that he is otherwise than personally. A judgment against him personally would not be binding upon him as an officer of the court, and would be of no avail to the plaintiff, and on the other hand there would be no justice in giving a judgment against him personally for acts which he has done in obedience to the orders of this court, and in matters in which he had no interest, and which he did as receiver, and in no other capacity. For these reasons, I think the judgment should be for the defendants, and it is so ordered.

ADJUDGED INSANE.

Mrs. Emma Blumberg, a native of Russia, 50 years of age, was taken before Judge Shaw yesterday morning for examination as to her sanity, and in accordance with the recommendation of Drs. Kierulff and Moore, she was adjudged insane and committed by the Court to the State Asylum for the Insane. The unfortunate woman attempted to shoot Officer Powle on Monday morning on Main street during one of her paroxysms.

Adams vs. David Burbank, was concluded, the jury to whom the matter was finally submitted at 3:30 o'clock, returning into court an hour later with a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $2200. THIRTY YEARS AFTER.

A Reminiscence of the Battle of Pittsburgh Landing.

An Account of Gen. Bouton's Famous Artillery Duel.

What Was Said About It by the Confederates.

Defying the Entire Army of the Enemy—A Short, Interesting Chapter of History of the Rebellion.

Thirty years ago today, on April 6, 1862, was begun the memorable battle of Shiloh, a locality so called from the church situated there on the Tennessee River in Hardin county, Tennessee, between the Union forces under Gen. Grant and the Confederates under Gen. A. S. Johnston. Beauregard's battle is sometimes called that of Pittsburgh Landing. After the evacuation of Nashville the Confederate forces in the West were concentrated near Corinth, Miss., while Grant was preparing to move so as to cut off their communications in Western Tennessee. On March 1, with about 32,000 men, he reached Pittsburgh Landing, where he was to be joined by Gen. Buell. Johnston, who had about 45,000 men, moved from Corinth and attacked Grant on the morning of the 4th. The attack fell first upon the divisions of W. T. Sherman and Prentiss, both of which were driven back, three regiments of the latter being captured and the whole army forced back almost to the landing. In the afternoon Buell's advance appeared on the opposite bank and a single division crossed while the battle was going on. Gen. Johnston was mortally wounded, and the command devolved upon Beauregard, who assailed the Union center and left, on which most of the artillery had been concentrated, and which was also covered by two gunboats. The attack was repelled, and at night a bombardment was opened, which compelled the Confederates to retire a little. The remainder of Buell's command crossed during the night, and on the morning of the 6th, 45,000 Grant opened the action early on the morning of the 7th by an artillery fire, before which the Confederates fell back. This was followed by a general assault, which was obstinately resisted. The action continued until 4 p.m., when the Confederates retreated. The Union loss, as officially reported, was 1700 killed, 7495 wounded and 8023 prisoners; in all, 12,217. The Confederate loss, as reported by Beauregard, was 1738 killed, 8012 wounded and 959 missing; in all, 10,689.

AT ARTILLERY DUEL.

In this connection it is especially appropos to speak of the notable artillery duel which occurred at Pittsburgh Landing on Sunday, April 6, the first day of the battle between Bouton's Chicago battery on the Union side and the Washington Artillery No. 4 of New Orleans, and Rogers' Mississippi battery on the side of the Confederates. The action early on the morning of the 7th by an artillery fire, before which the Confederates fell back. This was followed by a general assault, which was obstinately resisted. The action continued until 4 p.m., when the Confederates retreated. The Union loss, as officially reported, was 1700 killed, 7495 wounded and 8023 prisoners; in all, 12,217. The Confederate loss, as reported by Beauregard, was 1738 killed, 8012 wounded and 959 missing; in all, 10,689.

At about 3 p.m. the Union forces were compelled to retire from a timbered ridge about a third of a mile out from Pittsburgh Landing, and from there the last line just in front of the landing. Some 800 yards in front of this ridge was the green point where the Hamburg and Purdy roads formed a large Y-shape, and it was here that a large Confederate force, when the Union forces fell back from this ridge Bouton's battery, having a commanding position, opened fire on the Confederate line just in front of the landing. The forty-sixth Ohio Infantry remained within supporting distance in the rear. If the Confederates gained the ridge their guns would sweep the Union line, and the reverse space, the fate of the Union army centered on this ridge being held till night or Buell came.

At the Artillery No. 4, of New Orleans, took a position well in front and to the right of the enemy's position, and opened fire at about 500 yards range on Bouton's battery. After the thundering combat had raged hot and furious for half an hour, Rogers' Mississippi battery with four 24-pounder howitzers, took position and opened fire on Bouton's line at some 600 yards range, thus bringing him under a heavy cross fire at short range. Bouton then wheeled his right section of two guns under First Lieutenant Perry Rogers and brought it to bear on the Mississippi battery and answered their fire shot for shot. But the Confederates failed to drive him from the ridge, a brigade of Mississippi Infantry charged his battery in front, advancing between the two batteries and right about face before they started. This charge was met with guns double-shotted with canister, which sent them back in broken disorder. The fight between the two batteries was then continued for some time, when a brigade of Texas cavalry swung around to the extreme right and charged the battery. So the Union forces were driven back to the Washington artillery on its left and the Mississippi battery in front. The cavalry soon showed a distaste for the batteries, and the fight was then continued on the right, where the batteries, however, went on till the approach of night, just as Bouton fired his last round of ammunition. Then he fell back to the main line, and a well remembered circular space in front of the Landing, taking off one disabled gun by hand and two disabled horses with a pair of horses, he rode off to the city.

It was ascertained that he had successfully held the ridge against such fearful odds, such a cheer of triumph went up as made the welkin ring. It meant victory for the morrow. The next day, with five guns resupplied with ammunition, Bouton's battery made a dash across an old cotton field under a terrible fire of both infantry and artillery and occupied and held a position from which two batteries had been successfully driven, and which was at short range materially aided in driving Breckinridge's reserves from nearly the same ground occupied by Sherman's division, which he commanded the battle on that fearful Sunday morning.

The Union forces had, all told, forty-four batteries of artillery. Pete Bragg's and Bouton's were the only two engaged in the fight from beginning to end. Pete Woods fired the first shot, and Bouton the last. They fired the same number of shots. Halleck said 1000 men saved the day at Shiloh; most conspicuous in the number was Bouton's battery of Chicago.

Eleven Rogers was promoted to be captain of McAllister's battery, and at Vicksburg the two Rogers again confronted each other, where poor Harry fell, shot through the head by a snarlshooter. Bouton ended the fight at Shiloh on the morning of Sunday, April 6, with 154 men—137 for duty—six guns and 128 horses. He was the first to leave a battery in Grant's army to report ready for duty after the battle, viz.: On Wednesday morning, April 9, with four guns, fifty-eight men and sixty horses for duty.

WHAT CONFEDERATE AUTHORITIES SAID OF THIS MATTER.

In speaking of the position on the ridge from the operation of the day, the Confederate staff says: "In our front only one single point was showing—Sgt. A. Hill crowned with artillery. I was with Gen. Bragg and rode with him over the ridge. I saw the point and heard him say over and over again, 'Save

An Age of Progress.

Cleveland's The Standard.

When Cleveland's Baking Powder was first offered the United States Army in place of the one then used, the Commissary Department, under authority from Washington, January 21, 1891, analyzed and compared both brands. As a result of the analyses, Cleveland's was selected, and since that time has been the baking powder used in the U. S. Army, and every proposal for army supplies specifies that the baking powder must be "equal in quality to Cleveland's."

It is an age of "go ahead" and Cleveland's is up with the age.

In using Cleveland's Baking Powder, remember that on account of its superior strength it takes about one-third less to do the same work.

She has a young son by her first husband, and after she had been married to Clements a short time he seemed to take a violent dislike to her son, and on more than one occasion he has beat the child in a most cruel manner.

LOOKS LIKE BLACKMAIL.

A Japanese "Missionary" Behind the Bars at the City Prison.

A Japanese who answers to the picturesque name of Risuke Ogawara was arrested by Detective Bowler yesterday about noon and locked up at the city prison, on a charge of extortion or blackmail.

For several days past Ogawara, who, by the way, claims to be a Japanese missionary, has been hanging about the police station at odd intervals. He professed to be greatly interested in the welfare of a Japanese prostitute, who occupies a "crib" on Alameda street, and said that he wished to reclaim the girl from the life she has been leading and send her to the Japanese mission in San Francisco. The officers did not take much stock in the fellow, and came to the conclusion that he would bear watching, as they were convinced that he wished to get possession of the girl for his own purposes.

They were not mistaken, for yesterday Ogawara went to the woman's place and demanded $30 at once. She did not have the amount, but gave him a railroad ticket and $9 in money, and Detective Bowler happened along, the "Jap" was turned over to him. It is not known what the relations between the man and the woman are, or what means were used to induce the woman to give him the money. These facts will probably come out in the examination today.

PASADENA.

A Taxpayer's Views on the School Question.

He Urges That Economy be Practiced at the Proper Time.

How a Number of Ladies were Taken In on Moonstones.

A Filtration Party—Prizes Awarded—The "Deedist Skule" Tonight—Personal Notes of Interest—Batch of Briefs.

[Branch office, No. 50 East Colorado street, where news, advertisements and orders for THE TIMES are received.]

The following communication, received yesterday from one of the heaviest taxpayers of town, explains itself:

"The article printed in the Pasadena column of THE TIMES yesterday, relative to the school question, hits the nail on the head. Although strongly impressed with the idea that the present taxes are as heavy as they should be and heavier than most of us want them to be, and while not altogether in accord with the present administration, there is no room for doubt, in my mind, but that it would be the height of folly, and anything but economy in the long run, to vote down the proposed special tax and close the schools after a six month's term.

"Granting that the trustees have been extravagant; granting that too many teachers are employed and that they are paid too high salaries, how is it going to help matters to vote down this special tax? It is cutting off our nose to spite our face? Why not rather come nobly to the scratch, face the music, pay the additional tax and thereby maintain Pasadena's enviable reputation as an educational center, and then get in our work later by electing the right plan? The ladies voted for the most hopeful and the most economical plan. Then, with a reorganized board, it may reasonably be supposed that whatever way there may be to economize on the school fund, cut down present expenses will be taken advantage of, so that if, as the anti-administration people claim, a special tax is a useless extravagance, there will be no need for one. This to me seems the simplest way of solving a knotty problem without detracting from the city's reputation as being the friend of school and education.

A FILTRATION PARTY. Mrs. T. B. Winslow entertained a small company of friends Monday night at her residence on South Los Angeles street, which proved altogether enjoyable to all present. A novelty was introduced in the way of a filtration party. Partners were drawn for and after a chat of three minutes the gentlemen advanced to the next lady and so continued until the complete circuit was made. This being accomplished, the ladies voted for the most hopeful and the most economical plan. Then, with a reorganized board, it may reasonably be supposed that whatever way there may be to economize on the school fund, cut down present expenses will be taken advantage of, so that if, as the anti-administration people claim, a special tax is a useless extravagance, there will be no need for one. This to me seems the simplest way of solving a knotty problem without detracting from the city's reputation as being the friend of school and education.

Among those present were: C. B. Scoville, Thad Lowe, R. J. Rogers, Harold Channing, Mr. Brown, Mr. B. B. Brown, Miss Lowe, Miss Zoe Lowe, Miss Wilde, Miss Cooley, Miss Hill, Miss Hurst, Miss Bates and Miss Gilmore.

It seems that several Pasadena ladies have been badly taken in on moonstones recently. For some time Redondo Beach has been acquiring quite a reputation as a moonstone resort, until it has become the fact to visit this spot, spend a day looking for the pebbles and then take the "link" to Los Angeles to be cut. The cutting process costs from $1.50 to $2.00 a stone. One lady of town after spending about $20 in this way was very much surprised upon a visit to another store to find plenty of moonstones for sale at prices ranging from 10 to 40 cents each. Inquiry developed the fact that this is as much as most moonstones are worth, that the pebbles picked up from the beach are not moonstones at all and that the other jeweler simply throws them out and returns his customer a stone worth two dollars. Eight times that amount levied for a cutting process which exists only in the imagination of the purchaser.

Seats are on sale at Sussert's. Popular prices will prevail. Streetcars will run for the accommodation of the patrons.

FRANK DECKER is completing arrangements for a game of ball Saturday afternoon between the Pasadena nine and a club from Los Angeles. The latter aggregation, while not a member of the league, is said to be composed of a rattling good lot of players. Capt. Decker will endeavor to get together a nine that will do justice to Pasadena so that an exciting match may be expected. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

An Important Electric Light Franchise Granted.

The San Antonio Company Given a Fifty-year Right.

The Riverside Municipal Canvass Becoming Very Acrimonious.

Innumerable Side Issues and Personalities Dragged into the Fight—Meeting of the Republican Convention at Colton—Notes.

SAN BERNARDINO.

[Branch office at Stewart Hotel news stand, where news, advertisements and orders for THE TIMES are received.]

An important meeting of the County Supervisors was held at the San Antonio Hotel yesterday afternoon for the purpose of granting a franchise to the San Antonio Electric Light and Power Company for a term of fifty years to construct, operate and maintain poles and lines for the transmission of electricity from the power-house or generating station at the fork of San Antonio Cañon to San Bernardino.

This is an important step in the direction of early competition in light and power in this city, and will be of great benefit to the citizens. The day now seems to be drawing near when better and cheaper light may be had.

There were twelve transfers of real estate recorded on Monday, the total consideration being $17,016.

Several prominent Republicans went to Colton yesterday to attend the meeting of the County Central Committee.

T. B. Pierson was in Los Angeles on Monday, and while there, Prof. Charles Eliot of Harvard to lecture upon matters pertaining to education. The doctor is a profound thinker, a good speaker, and among the foremost educators of the world, and it will do San Bernardino people good to hear him. The lecture is given upon the earnest request of friends in this city and no charge is made for admission.

A. W. Hall, Jr., who came from the East some time ago for his health, died yesterday morning of consumption. He had been suffering from the disease for some time, and was near base line, and was too far gone to be cured by the climate.

After the close of the business meeting Monday night of the Board of Supervisors, A. M. and M. M. the members were escorted into the ante-room, where they saw spread a fine banquet, prepared by the Silver Warr Chapter No. 75, O.E.S., which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The Methodist Episcopal Church is the largest building that could be secured for its event, in which Prof. Charles Eliot of Harvard is to lecture upon matters pertaining to education. The doctor is a profound thinker, a good speaker, and among the foremost educators of the world, and it will do San Bernardino people good to hear him. The lecture is given upon the earnest request of friends in this city and no charge is made for admission.

Not contented with the road field provided by the franchise question in the coming city election, some of the interested parties have dragged innumerable side issues into the fight. Personalities, with abuse and ungentlemanly language have been indulged in so freely that one acquainted with the people would certainly expect to hear of broken noses and bloodshed. It is not improbable that it may come to that yet, ere the close of the polls.

On Monday night, as some are disposed to resent in unmistakable manner some of the insinuations and reflections cast upon them.

The county division contest, too, has become an important factor in the fight. The franchise people have said that there was a compact between the people of the county and the Southern Pacific representatives by which the support of the county division by the Southern Pacific was secured in return for the franchise.

When the county division was voted upon, the citizens of a franchise for its gain, or some similar arrangement. This the anti-franchise people deny most emphatically. In the meantime, the bone was set and the history of the county division fight at Sacramento is being divulged.

The very day the news reached him of the arrest of his son for being implicated in the murder of the Chinaman at Lompoc he collapsed, and he is now in a precarious condition. Another son, who is now in the city, is also a friend to Mr. Bucher, who is counsel for young Campbell.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE. Another Mysterious Fire at the Hotel Figueroa Yesterday.

There was another mysterious fire at the Hotel Figueroa early yesterday morning, and but for the prompt and efficient work of the fire department the building and its contents would have been destroyed.

Shortly before 4 o'clock P. H. Lemert, the proprietor of the house, was awakened by his wife and discovered that his room was filled with smoke.

He at once rushed out into the hall and discovered a small blaze in the hall near the main entrance, when he turned in the fire alarm in the house and started up the stairs to warn the guests.

He called to one of the guests to turn in a telephone alarm, but the instrument would not work, and one of the boarders went to the engine-house, which is only a few hundred feet away, and called out the alarm.

The engine promptly responded and the fire was extinguished in a few minutes, the entire loss not amounting to more than $1000.

The cause of the fire is a mystery. This is the fourth time these have been fires at this hotel, and no clear explanation has been found to the incendiaries until young Case was arrested, when he confessed having set fire to the barn once. Case was tried and acquitted, and has since left the city, since which time there have been no further fires until the blaze yesterday morning.

BASEBALL. The Colonels Will Meet the Angels Today for the First Time.

Col. T. P. Robinson and his aggregation of ball tossers will arrive from the North this morning and the Oakland-Los Angeles series will begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Athletic Club Park.

Col. Robinson is the man who wrote to Mr. Vanderbeck a short time ago that the Oakland would set the pace this year and the other clubs in the California League would follow his flag.

He also said something about coming to Los Angeles in a special train. But there has been a change since the Colonels' letter and Vanderbeck was satisfied to leave San Francisco very quietly and his arrival here will be the occasion of no unnecessary display.

President Vanderbeck has decided to call the week-day games at 8 p.m. for the present. While Mr. Vanderbeck is fully convinced that no more people will be accommodated at this hour than by calling the game at 8:30, the simple fact that the early evenings are disagreeably cold at this time of the year decided the change in time. Later in the season the games will most likely be called at 8:30 p.m. Sunday games at 2:30 p.m. for the present.

Dr. S. H. Boynton will deliver a lecture this evening upon the origin and development of Masonry before the Southern California Lodge No. 278, F. and A. M. All members and visiting brothers are cordially invited to attend.

J. Menely, who is in the city in the interest of the New York Mission school, of which he is the superintendent, will give a stereopticon entertainment at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South, this evening. The lecture will be on "Ireland." No admission fee is charged.

A dispatch from Chicago says that on Monday Mrs. M. T. Ellery of Los Angeles, reached that city to visit her sister. In the afternoon she went violently insane and was taken to the detention hospital. The unfortunate woman is 38 years of age and has been in unusually good health up to this time.

T. C. Naramore met with a very painful accident at his ranch in Riverside last Sunday evening. While he was driving over the grounds the horse shied for some cause and, breaking one of the lines in order to save himself, Mr. Naramore was thrown from the buggy, and in doing so broke his right wrist.

Much damage has been done to fences, trees and gardens, and those who have suffered this loss intend to report the matter officially to the police authorities.

The cable company yesterday opened its Washington street line (the blue line) from the car barn at Washington street to the Washington street end of Roseale Cemetery. This is a great convenience for people of the Roseale district, and will be a paying investment for the railroad company.

The manager of the Boston R. R. Photo car is in a quandary. The car was only booked for two weeks in Los Angeles and it has been here more than six weeks. The company, as well as the residents of the other California towns, are clamoring vociferously for it to "move on," while to do so is simply to throw away a business that couldn't possibly be better anywhere.

Instead of slackening up it is getting bigger and bigger every day, and nine expert photographers are doing almost double duty. Some very superior work is being turned out, although the charge for cabinets is only $1 per dozen.

"SOCIAL QUIETUDE."

"Always a calm before a storm" is a familiar platitude which may be appropriately quoted at this period of the Lenten quietude. After the 17th of April the storm of social activity will burst upon us in a perfect deluge of dissipation. The Kirmess will lead off the carnival, lasting a week, and the round of spring receptions will follow close on its heels, continuing till it is time for fashion's devotees to hie away to mountains or seashore for the summer.

But few of our people leave the city after the fourth of July, whereas in the northern part of the State the summer fitting comes fully a month earlier, for by that time San Francisco calms have had enough fog to make them long for the warm springs of Lake country or other inland resorts.

Angelenos enjoy such a perfect all-the-year-round climate that there is little necessity for going out of town at all, so far as comfort is concerned, but all Americans are fond of a change. We are such a restless nation—forever on the move, particularly in California.

SOCIAL SCRIBBLINGS.

It was a bright Boston school girl who, when asked by her teacher to explain the meaning of the Shakespearean phrase "Go to!" exclaimed: "Oh, that is only the sixteenth century's expression of the nineteenth century 'come off!'"

A professor of Bologna has been collecting statistics bearing upon the color of human hair. He comes to the conclusion that fair hair is disappearing, and that in the course of a few centuries blondes will have entirely disappeared. The disappearance of the blonde is most noticeable in great cities, and is attributed by the professor to an excessive indulgence in meat diet.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox gave a dinner in New York recently complimentary to an African explorer, a comrade of Stanley. The table decorations were appropriate and therefore unique. The center-piece was a mass of exotic grasses, imitating a jungle, out of which peeped tiny baboons of terra cotta. The creams and ices were moulded in the shape of African heads, perhaps to assist the imagination of the guests that they were at a cannibal feast. I couldn't help wondering if this was really appetizing.

A few elephants and monkeys would have helped out the illusion, and a shower of arrows let fly at the right moment would have completed the scene and made a very pretty little stampede in the bargain.

SUPPER TO COL. BROWN.

In the spacious dining-hall of the Hotel Arcadia last Monday evening a supper was given to Col. Brown, general inspector of soldiers' homes, by some citizens of Santa Monica to whom he has endeared himself by his kind, affable manner and pleasant, genial way during his two years' residence at the hotel. The tables were decorated with artistic taste, delicate sprays of green and rich masses of colored flowers extending the entire length, with a group of callias in crystal vases at each end. A dainty buttonhole bouquet lay at each plate beside the pretty array of glasses. The delicious repast occupied those who sat at table for two hours.

Mr. E. G. Vawter, as host, made a happy speech, that was heartily responded to by Col. Brown, and then followed other rare and racy remarks. Toasts and speeches were made by Col. Treichel, Fred Cowley, W. S. Vawter and others.

The following gentlemen were present: J. W. Scott, Col. Treichel, Maj. Treichel, E. J. Vawter, C. B. Scott, L. F. Fisher, H. S. Beville, Col. E. S. Brown, Col. O. Gray, J. B. Roby, J. B. Bandini, W. S. Vawter, Fred Cowley.

Col. Brown leaves today for a visit at the different Soldiers' Homes on the Eastern coast. As ever, he goes where duty calls, but leaves Southern California with many regrets. He will be greatly missed at the hotel and in the town.

Our Method a Success—The Hit of the Season.

By adopting the principles of the time-worn adage, "Quick sales and small profit," has brought us for much less price, some times 50 per cent less than many other places. No store can live and sell cheap unless they handle the quantities. We claim to sell more millinery than any two stores in the millinery line in this city; therefore we can exist on smaller profits than any competitor. In all candor we ask you to come and see for yourselves.

The hit of the season has been our special sale of a hat and flower at 50 cents for both, in all colors and all sizes and many shapes. The same would be considered cheap at $1 elsewhere.

Wonderful Cures

DR. WONG,

713 South Main Street, Los Angeles, California.

醫良世壽 妙藥精脉

"Skillful cure increases longevity to the world."

"Insensuously locating diseases through the pulse and excellent remedies are great blessings to the world."

The above are two fac similes of many REWARDS OF MERIT or DIPLOMAS OF PROFESSIONAL SKILL, which have from time to time been awarded to the CELEBRATED CHINESE PHYSICIAN, DR. WONG, for his superior medical abilities and curative powers. It has long been customary among the Chinese people when one becomes sick and when repeated attempts to cure him have failed, and he is perhaps given up to die, if after having been taken to an eminent physician, he is cured of his disease—the cured, too, in addition to the regular fee for professional services rendered, makes the physician a present as a token of gratitude for his restoration to health and the prolongation of his life. This present consists usually of a broad palm, presenting much the appearance of a sign-board, filled with characters entirely meaningless to the average English scholar, but full of meaning to the successful physician and his friends. It is a motto which highly compliments the physician for his great skill in effecting a cure of the disease which once afflicted the donor.

It is not an uncommon thing to see a great number of these COMPLIMENTARY DIPLOMAS adorning the office walls of Chinese physicians in their native country, and indeed a number of the most successful ones in this country are the happy possessors of a few of these high tokens of very superior medical ability.

DR. WONG has won a great many of these prizes and two of them adorn the front of his famous Sanitarium. See the testimonials accompanying them in the Sunday issue of THE TIMES. Hundreds of other testimonials are on file in the doctor's office, which he has received from his numerous American patients whom he has cured of all manner of diseases.
